■ DR DENESE This is problem-solving skincare designed by Dr Adrienne Denese MD PhD who runs a busy anti-ageing clinic in Manhattan. A regular expert on Good Morning America, her cult products include the Vitamin C Radiance Cream, £34.74stg, 15ml, a skin brightener with crushed pearls that instantly fill in lines; and the new Instant Wrinkle Press, £44.95stg, 15ml, with gamma aminobutyric acid (a naturally occurring muscle relaxant) that softens expression lines and helps minimise the appearance of dark circles.

■ GLOBAL BEAUTY Kombuchka, the mushroom of life, is the active ingredient in the cult Anti-Ageing Radiance Cream, €145, which multiplies collagen cells to plump up the skin and boost radiance. Created by French cosmetic doctor, Dr Laurent Miralles, the range also includes a Radiance Cleansing Mask with pineapple, €72, used before the cream, to optimise absorption of the active ingredients. Biopsies of skin, taken after two months of treatment, have shown an increase of 30 percent in collagen cells.

■ PH ADVANTAGE The man behind this brand, Dr Barry Cohen, a cosmetic surgeon from Washington, favours glycolic acid – the fruit-based acid used in many skin peels to remove dead layers of skin and increase cell turnover. He particularly recommends his products to those preparing skin for surgery, claiming a more speedy recovery.
