WIN! WIN! the Perfect Pucker from Dr Denese

THE Perfect Pucker from Dr Denese is designed to provide both an immediate and long-term reduction in the appearance of fine lines and wrinkles above and around the lips.

With soluble marine collagen for an immediate 'plumping' effect, the Perfect Pucker literally 'fills in' fine lines upon application for an instantly flawless finish.

But here's the clever bit...

The Perfect Pucker also contains a unique pro-peptide formula that helps to stimulate the growth of collagen and hyaluronic acid beneath the skin for a longer-lasting reduction in the appearance of fine lines.

Botanical extracts, vitamins and retinol provide additional anti-ageing benefits. Apply after foundation and make-up and smooth over lip lines and creases for an instantly flawless finish, and on a daily basis for long-term benefit.

The Perfect Pucker costs £24.95 for an approximate two-month supply of 10g and is available exclusively from Dr Denese on 0870 1900 003 and online at www.drdenese.co.uk

Brits are a nation of last-minute lotharios

THE UK is a nation of last-minute lotharios, according to data from Yell.com, the online service from Yellow Pages.

While we all want to demonstrate our love for our partners on Valentine's Day, it would appear that some people's planning only starts at 9am on the day itself.

On February 14 last year, searches for 'florists' on Yell.com peaked at a whopping 600 per cent above average between 9am and 11am - suggesting people arriving at work were spurred to emergency action by colleagues.

Equally, the rush to make last-minute table reservations caused searches for 'restaurants' to peak at midday at 236 per cent above average.

Yell.com's data analysts confidently predict they will see the same trend again this year.

Yell.com also trawled its database of more than two million UK business listings and found that searches for lingerie shops peaked at noon on Valentine's Day, as the nation's wannabe Romeos planned a mad dash to the shops in their lunch hour.

Helen Stevenson, chief marketing officer at Yell, said: "It's fascinating to see how many people make last-minute plans on Valentine's Day - but we'll never know how many act on romantic impulse and how many simply forgot the date!"
